Forecast For Wales
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 05 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Showers across many parts this afternoon. Much colder by Sunday.

Today:
A murky start in places, although some early brightness too. Some areas may see showers during the morning, but these will become more widespread in the afternoon. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Tonight:
Showers will clear northwards, leaving most areas dry with largely clear skies and possible fog and frost overnight. Some showers will still linger over coastal areas. Minimum temperature 1 deg C (34 deg F).

Saturday:
A showery start in some northern areas but dry with bright spells and fog patches elsewhere. Further showers arriving from the east into many parts, possibly wintry over hills later. Maximum temperature 7 deg C (45 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Sunday very cold and mostly dry but a few wintry showers are possible. Very cold on Monday and Tuesday, with scattered snow showers. Feeling bitter throughout in strong easterly winds.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.